Duties and Terms of Reference

UNOWA is entrusted with the overall mandate of enhancing sub-regional capacities for conflict prevention and mediation, confidence building as well as the sub-region capacities to address cross-border and cross-cutting threats to peace and security, in particular election-related instability and challenges related to security sector reform, trans-national organized crime, illicit trafficking and terrorism. Finally, the Office has also the mandate to promote good governance and respect for the rule of law, human rights, and the mainstreaming of gender in conflict prevention and conflict management initiatives in West Africa. The mandate of the Mixed Commission on Cameroon and Nigeria is to ensure the peaceful implementation of the judgment of the ICJ and to prevent related tension between Cameroon and Nigeria from escalating into conflict.

Under the overall guidance of the Special Representative of the UN Secretary-General (SRSG), the Security analyst will be responsible for the following duties:

- Determine and evaluate security trends in the sub-region with its potential impact on which could impact the situation of the affected populations in both countries; prepare ad hoc analytical reports including recommendations on possible action.
- In this regards, gather on a daily basis comprehensive information on security-related factors in the sub-region, with a focus on both threats on local security and cross-border security issues; develop a weekly security assessment (level, trends, major facts) and ad hoc analytical reports, including the reliability of sources.
- In coordination with colleagues, contribute to devising conflict prevention strategies, as well as targeted initiatives aiming at reducing tensions in the affected areas.
- Support in the field reconciliation processes.
- Prepare analytical reports and papers on matters of concern, with a focus on threats to security and stability in the affected areas (draft notes, background papers, talking points, speeches and other correspondence).
- Conduct researches on specific cross-border threat factors, including missions in the field.
- Maintain contacts with other sectors of the UN, other international organizations and governments on coordination and security matters; brief representatives and provide as appropriate suggestions and recommendations.

- Liaise and consult systematically with security experts (from, inter alia, national security agencies, national armed forces, defense attachés) and relevant regional/intergovernmental organizations.
  - Perform other related duties as required.

Competencies:

- Professionalism – Demonstrated ability to complete in-depth assessments and reach conclusions on possible causes and solutions to political and security problems in specific areas and/or countries; ability to relate various issues and perspectives to political, social, economic and humanitarian programmes in affected countries and areas.
- Planning and organizing – Proven ability to plan and organize own work and that of others.
- Communications – Proven ability to write in a clear and concise manner and to communicate orally effectively.
- Teamwork – Ability to interact and to establish and maintain effective working relationships both as a team member and team leader, with people in a multi-cultural, multi-ethnic environment with sensitivity and respect for diversity.

Qualifications:

Education: Advanced University Degree (Masters or equivalent) in political science or international relations with specialization on security matters, law enforcement, military or related fields or a combination of professional training and certification and experience.

Experience: At least 7 years in security issues, threat analysis, security sector reform, development or conflict resolution work at national and international levels, and preferably in the region of assignment. Prior knowledge of West African context highly desirable. Field experience is desirable.
